Activity: Nonprofit Organizations and Community Health

- NONPROFIT ORGANIZATIONS AND COMMUNITY HEALTH
- Nurses are the gatekeepers for equitable quality care and resource referrals for community individuals, groups, and aggregates. Nurses must consider health, social, physical, and emotional needs of the community. They work closely with the internal and external stakeholders such as community members and government officials. At times, cuts in local, state, and federal funding make it challenging to meet these needs for resources and services.
Complete this activity to gain insight into promoting equal opportunity and improving the quality of life in a community.
